2) Para refer is invited to para 4 of the G.O. wherein the principle underlying the modification proposed is detailed reading to the existing section every occupant or holder is responsible for the preservation of the boundal trees growing thereon He is also liable to pay Compensation in case of failure to report such damage and to prove that it was not caused by his own act or negligence.

It is now proposed to make the actual person in possession or occupation primarily responsible for the damage having done so, it is difficult to see how far the neglect of the person in possession can be urged to the detriment on the ground that the amount has become irrecoverable It is important also to hold that the person in possession was the agent of the khatedar for the particular act or omission.

In this connection Para
~~[illegible]~~ 1 of 1922 reference is invited to S. 64 of the L.R. Code. The tenant is there made responsible to the registered occupant in damages. If a similar provision is made here it will give the registered occupant a means of recovery, however remote.

The expressions 'penalty' and 'damages' used in the amendment do not occur in any other part of the section and may perhaps be 'compensation' and 'injury'.

From a perusal of the report of the Committee and of the Order there the change suggested appears merely to be that, while retaining the existing liability of the owners, a further provision may be added to Sec 73 of the Forest Regulation to enable the recovery of compensation from tenants in the first instance, in cases where the tenants may cause injury to Sandal trees behind the back of the owners. The changes proposed in the draft Bill do not seem to bring out this object clearly. It may perhaps be sufficient to add a Proviso at the end of the section in the following manner

" Provided that the Revenue Officer aforesaid shall, in cases in which he is satisfied that the person primarily responsible for the act, neglect, default, instigation or connivance was any tenant or occupant or holder any other person holding under or through an occupant or holder direct that such tenant or other person primarily shall also be liable for the compensation and be proceeded against in the first instance for recovery thereof."

13) The word "damage" does not find a place in the Section. The word used in its place is "injury" and this word may perhaps be defined, as proposed, to include the lopping of branches (resulting in material injury to the trees. ~~materially affecting the tree~~)

14) I have suggested the addition of the Proviso on the lines of the Proviso in Sec 64 of the Land Revenue Code with necessary changes, and suggested the use of the words found therein "any tenant of any occupant or any other person holding under or through an occupant" in place of the words "tenant in actual possession" as these appear to be legally indefinite

15) On the desirability of the above changes the Administration branch will if approved be consulted

(Official Memorandum)

Clauses (a) & (b) of the G.O require that the necessity for a proposed piece of legislation & the main lines on which it should be undertaken will have to be considered by the Council & the approval of His Highness obtained to the proposed piece of legislation. In passing orders on the Report of the Sandalwood Committee, the necessity for amending Sec 73 of the Forest Regulation has been set forth in para 4 thereof. Since this G.O has been considered by the Council the proposed legislation also may be deemed to have been considered by the Council as the G.O itself shows. The Final Note to His Highness does not refer specifically to the proposed legislation. But the draft G.O has been submitted & it has the approval of His Highness. It is for orders if this may be taken as compliance with clause (b) of the Official Memorandum which requires the approval of His Highness to the proposed legislation or if the draft bill as drafted now has to be submitted for approval.

Subject:—

Bill to amend the Mysore Forest Regulation of 1900.

53)

With His Highness' sanction, orders were issued on the recommendations of the Sandal Damage Committee, directing among other things that the Anubhavadar of the land should be made primarily responsible for the damage caused to sandal trees on his land and that the Khatedar should be made liable for it only in case the amount of damage becomes irrecoverable from him. It is now proposed to amend Section 73 of the Forest Regulation accordingly. The Dewan and the Members of Council have agreed to this proposal. Gracious sanction of His Highness is solicited to the proposed legislation and for placing it before the Representative Assembly.

Amendment of Section 73 of the Mysore Forest Regulation.

Objects and reasons.

Under Section 73 of the Mysore Forest Regulation, every occupant or holder of land is responsible for the due preservation of all sandal trees growing thereon. He is also liable to pay compensation on account of damage caused to such trees in case he fails to report such damage and to prove that it was not caused by his own act or neglect on his part. As frequent representations were made to Government that this Rule was working as a hardship in the case of absentee landlords who are not in a position to watch the damage caused to sandal trees during their absence, the question as to how far the existing law in this behalf required modification was referred for examination, to ~~the~~ a sandalwood Committee appointed in June 1929 to go into the question ~~of modifying the existing rules relating to the responsibility of land-holders for the preservation of sandal trees growing on their lands, the facilities~~ to be afforded to them for the removal of trees which hinder the legitimate use of such lands, and the conditions under which lands containing sandal trees might be given out for cultivation. The Committee have recommended that the person in actual possession i-e., the Anubhavadar of the land should be made primarily responsible for the damage caused to sandal trees on his land and that the Khatedar or registered occupant should be made liable for the damage only in case th the compensation for the damage becomes irrecoverable from the Anubhavadar. The recommendation of the Committee has been approved by Government and the amendment proposed is with a view to give effect to the recommendation.

Statement of general principles

Under the existing law every occupant or holder of land is responsible for the preservation of all sandal trees growing thereon and is liable to pay compensation on account of any injury caused to such trees in case he fails to report the injury or to prove that it was not caused by his own act or neglect. The Sandalwood Committee have recommended in their report published with Government Order No. G. 5082-95/Ft. 26-29-14 dated the 11th November 1930 that the person in actual possession (i-e., the Anubhavadar) of the land be made primarily responsible for any damage caused to sandal trees on his land and that the registered occupant be held liable only when the compensation for the damage cannot be recovered from the Anubhavadar This recommendation of the Committee has been approved by Government and the amendment proposed is intended to give effect to it.

Amendment of Section 73 of the Mysore Forest Regulation.

Objects and reasons.

Under Section 73 of the Mysore Forest Regulation, every occupant or holder of land is responsible for the due preservation of all sandal trees growing thereon. He is also liable to pay compensation on account of damage caused to such trees in case he fails to report such damage and to prove that it was not caused by his own act or neglect on his part. DASARA SESSION—OCTOBER 1931.

A Bill to further amend the Mysore Forest Regulation, No. XI of 1900.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Mysore Forest Regulation, 1900; it is hereby enacted as follows:—

The following shall be added as a proviso to Section 73 (2) of the said Regulation:—

Addition of a proviso to Section 73 (2)

"Provided that the Revenue Officer aforesaid, may, in cases in which he is satisfied that the person responsible for the act, neglect, default, instigation or connivance resulting in the injury was any tenant of the occupant or holder, or any other person holding under or through an occupant or holder, direct that such tenant or other person shall primarily be liable for the compensation and be proceeded against in the first instance for recovery thereof.

Explanation.—The word "injury" used in this Section includes the lopping of branches of trees resulting in material injury to them.

Section 73 as amended will read as follows:—

73 (1) Every occupant or holder of land shall be responsible for the due preservation of all sandal trees growing thereon, and shall, in the event of an injury to any such trees from whatever cause, at once report such fact to the nearest Local Revenue Officer.

(2) Any occupant or holder who fails to report any such case of injury as aforesaid, or to prove to the satisfaction of a Revenue Officer not lower in rank than an Amildar or Deputy Amildar, that such injury was not caused either by his own act or by any neglect or default on his part, or by any other person at his instigation or with his connivance, shall, notwithstanding any other penalty to which he may be liable, be liable to pay to Government such compensation on account of such injury as to such Revenue Officer may seem reasonable.

Provided that the Revenue Officer aforesaid, may, in cases in which he is satisfied that the person responsible for the act, neglect, default, instigation or connivance resulting in the injury was any tenant of the occupant or holder, or any other person holding under or through an occupant or holder, direct that such tenant or other person shall primarily be liable for the compensation and be proceeded against in the first instance for recovery thereof.

Explanation.—The word "injury" used in this Section includes the lopping of branches of trees resulting in material injury to them.

Representative Assembly.

NOTIFICATION.

No. Rl. 2091—L. C. dated the 13*th November* 1931.

Under Rule 8 of the Rules for the conduct of business of the Mysore Legislative Council, the accompanying Bill to further amend the Mysore Forest Regulation, No. XI of 1900, is published for general information with the statement of objects and reasons.

By Order,
C. SUBRAHMANYA AIYAR,
Ex-officio Secretary,
Mysore Legislative Council.

A Bill to further amend the Mysore Forest Regulation, No. XI of 1900.

Whereas it is expedient to amend the Mysore Forest Regulation, 1900: It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Addition of a proviso to section 73 (2).

The following shall be added as a proviso to section 73 (2) of the said Regulation :—

" Provided that the Revenue Officer aforesaid, may, in cases in which he is satisfied that the person responsible for the act, neglect, default, instigation or connivance resulting in the injury was any tenant of the occupant or holder, or any other person holding under or through an occupant or holder, direct that such tenant or other person shall primarily be liable for the compensation and be proceeded against in the first instance for recovery thereof.

Explanation.—The word, 'injury' used in this section includes the lopping of branches of trees resulting in material injury to them."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Under the existing law, every occupant or holder of land is responsible for the preservation of all sandal trees growing thereon and is liable to pay compensation on account of any injury caused to such trees, in case he fails to report the injury or to prove that it was not caused by his own act or neglect. The Sandalwood Committee have recommended in their report published with Government Order No. G. 5082-95—Ft. 26-29-14, dated the 11th November 1930, that the person in actual possession (i. e., the Anubhavadar) of the land be made primarily responsible for any damage caused to sandal trees on his land and that the registered occupant be held liable only when the compensation for the damage cannot be recovered from the Anubhavadar. This recommendation of the Committee has been approved by Government and the amendment proposed is intended to give effect to it.

SIR,

I am directed to ackno ur letter No. Pol.595/Ft.26-29, dated the 28th November, 1931, forwarding copy of a Bill to amend the Mysore Forest Regulation, 1900, and to say that there is no prima facie objection to the Bill being laid before the Legislative Council. It is presumed that, both in the notification forwarded with your letter and in the headline of the Bill, "XI of 1930" is an error for "XI of 1900."

2. As the Bill will require a reference to the Government f India before it is passed into law, a further communication will be awaited.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
